SAFEGUARDING CHILDREN IN SPORT & ANTIDOPING WORKSHOPS FOR ATHLETES

As well as various webinars taking place several days before the event to support the Head of Delegation and Coaches in preparing their mission within an ISF event (these online educational & capacity building activities are compulsory to attend for all the following adults' stakeholders taking part in ISF events), the ISF's promotion of school sport by the ISF Academy through its international events also involves the transmission of knowledge through workshops on two themes that are dear to us all: Safeguarding Children in Sport and Doping Prevention in Sport.

ISF firmly believes that children have and must have the necessary inner resources, through these workshops, to understand, identify and react to negative behaviour such as racism, gender inequality or violence and abuse. The challenge for ISF is to find the right way to express difficult ideas and present complicated topics to young people so that they understand, but also so that they correctly apprehend this problem and are able to react to it.

Raising awareness and enabling participants to transfer their knowledge to their peers back home are also key elements of ISF. During this event, athletes from all over the world will attend several workshops sessions given by experts in the field, passing on their knowledge and experience through dedicated, constructive and interactive pedagogy.

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION

CHINA TRAVEL ADAPTER & VOLTAGE

To ensure you can safely use your personal electrical appliances during your stay, please plan what to pack accordingly. You will likely need a travel adapter. This device allows you to connect your appliances to a different type of electrical socket found in another country.

Crucially, please note the difference between an adapter and a converter:

- A travel adapter only allows a physical connection to the socket. It does not change the electrical voltage or frequency.
- A voltage converter is required to transform the electrical supply to match your device's needs. China operates on a 220V supply voltage and 50Hz frequency. If your device is not compatible with this voltage, you must use a voltage converter to avoid damage to your appliance.

China primarily uses two types of power plugs: A, and I.

POWER BANK

Power banks in China are required to have a CCC (China Compulsory Certification) mark. Devices without this certification may be confiscated during airport security checks. Travelers are advised to ensure their power banks meet Chinese safety standards and clearly display the CCC logo before traveling.

ISF WSC VOLLEYBALL 2026

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION

Currency Exchange and Payments in China

The official currency in China is the Chinese Yuan (CNY). The exchange rate against the Euro (EUR) varies daily, so it is recommended to check the latest rate before or upon arrival. As a general reference, 1 Euro is approximately equal to 7-8 CNY, depending on market conditions.

Delegations can exchange money at major banks, international airports, and hotel exchange counters. ATMs that accept international cards (Visa, MasterCard, and UnionPay) are also widely available in urban areas.

While credit cards (Visa, MasterCard, and American Express) are accepted in large hotels, shopping malls, and some restaurants, smaller shops and local vendors often do not accept foreign cards. Therefore, it is highly advisable to use mobile payment platforms, especially Alipay or WeChat Pay, which are the most convenient and widely used payment methods in China.

For ease of use, visitors can link their international credit or debit card to Alipay, allowing seamless payments for meals, shopping, and local transportation such as metro, taxis, and ride-hailing services (like Didi). Using Alipay ensures smooth, cashless transactions throughout the stay in China.

Communication in China

It is highly recommended to use WeChat, China's most popular all-in-one communication and social media platform. WeChat allows users to send messages, make voice and video calls, share photos and files, and even make payments or book transport. The app is free to download and available in English.

All participants and delegations are encouraged to create a WeChat account prior to arrival in China to ensure smooth communication with local organizers, hotel staff, and transportation services throughout their stay.
